Join a powerful conversation to discuss how we can respond to challenging behaviors in youth.

This forum brings together experts and youth-serving professionals, including a child psychologist, occupational therapist, school system leaders, and after-school staff. Through panel discussion and case studies, participants will gain practical, trauma-informed tools to de-escalate behavior, build connection, and better support the children they serve.

Walk away with strategies that you can use immediately and the confidence that you're not in this work alone.
